INVITATION TO NMPC 2018

Model predictive control (MPC) is indisputably one of the advanced control techniques that has significantly affected control engineering practice.

The 6th IFAC International Conference on Nonlinear Model Predictive Control - NMPC 2018 - will take place in the city of Wisconsin, Madison, USA in the Fluno conference center. It is located between the lakes Mendota and Monona on the University of Wisconsin Madison campus, in the downtown and cultural center of Madison. NMPC 2018 aims at bringing together researchers interested and working in the field of MPC, from both academia and industry. We aim to reflect and establish the current state-of-the-art and focus the future development of the MPC field towards relevant directions.
